KAURI VAULT

Forty thousand years in the making

A Holiday Gift that will last forever!

Hi and welcome. I can't believe it is almost Christmas already. If you're still looking for that special gift - maybe for a family member, an old friend, a valued client - or maybe something for the holiday bach that the whole family will enjoy - you could check out a backgammon set, a chess board, a whiskey glass case or one of the precious art pieces in our gallery - all made from enduring NZ Kauri.

Visit our website at kaurivault.com or come and explore our gallery in Opuia, Unit D1, Paihia Rd Opuia 0282, Bay of Islands.

New Zealand Kauri... each unique and ancient grain tells its own story

As an artist, I'm both inspired and at the same time humbled by the unique nature of my medium. New Zealand's ancient Kauri holds secrets to its past in the very grain of the timber, something we can only explore once the surface is worked and polished.

Kauri is often punctuated with bizarre and rhythmic patterns that are visually as alluring as their names... fiddleback, whitebait, flame - each expressing its own unique wave patterns and texture set in the flat surface of the timber.

Every piece of Kauri that I shape and polish is uniquely different from the last - making no one design or piece of furniture the same as another. As a timber artisan who specialises in working with this pure and natural material - who could ask for more? The beauty is as rich, alluring and mysterious as the pressures and forces of nature that created them over the centuries as the timber lay buried in the ground.

We still have some great gifts available and many of the pieces come from timber over forty thousand years old. Whether you're looking for a small bowl, a lamp, a coffee table or perhaps something a little bigger - why not come and check out our gallery shop and experience the magic of our ancient Kauri.
